

Farewell to Inaugural SSN Postdoctoral Fellows

AUGUST 29, 2019

The Scholars Strategy Network congratulates the inaugural cohort of SSN Postdoctoral Fellows on the completion of their fellowship. SSN, the chapters that hosted them, and the communities that they joined benefitted greatly from the research they conducted and policy connections they made throughout their two year fellowship. SSN wishes them the best in their next endeavors, and we look forward to working with them as SSN members in the future.

Please join us in wishing the 2017-2019 SSN Postdoctoral Fellows a bittersweet farewell and congratulating them on their next steps.

SAYIL CAMACHO

Vanderbilt University

Sayil will continue her work at Peabody and research with the Policies for Action Research Hub at Vanderbilt University, which will illuminate ways that current policies, processes, and programs might be adapted to better serve the needs of families, particularly for children of immigrants.

NATALIE D. HENGSTEBECK

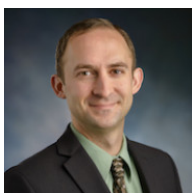

American Association for the Advancement of Science

Natalie is an American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) Science and Technology Policy Fellow (STPF) based at the National Science Foundation. She will join the strategic partnerships and Convergence Accelerator teams.

DANIEL LANFORD

Georgia State University

Daniel is a Senior Research Associate at the Georgia Health Policy Center at Georgia State University, where conducts research on initiatives aligning health care, public health, and social services. His main projects are commissioned by the Georgia Department of Community Health and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation.

FERNANDO TORMOS-APONTE

University of Pittsburgh

Fernando is a Postdoctoral Research Associate with a joint appointment at the University of Maryland — Baltimore County School of Public Policy and the Department of Political Science, as well as a Visiting Scholar at the Johns Hopkins University Department of Political Science.