Republican budget has a few big winners, many losers

Chris Howard, College of William and Mary

Government budgets are like box scores in basketball or baseball. If you study the numbers, you can tell who had a good day or bad day. The Republican budget that barely passed in the House will give millionaires a major victory. But millions of working families will be shut out.

Republicans are being very selective in the budget numbers they highlight. They claim that almost all Americans will receive a tax cut. What they don't mention is how huge those tax cuts will be for the rich compared to everyone else.
