

SSN Media Fellowship AY 25-26: Applications Due Sept 1

AUGUST 11, 2025

Dominik Doemer

The Scholars Strategy Network is thrilled to launch the third year of the SSN Media Fellowship for the 2025-26 academic year. Designed to empower SSN members who are new to media work, the SSN Media Fellowship will pair selected SSN members with experienced mentors from the network, while also providing media workshops and tailored support from national staff.

Applications are now open and due September 1, 2025.

Program Overview

This program equips a small cohort of scholars who are seeking to expand their media work with the skills and strategies necessary to effectively communicate their research findings to a diverse audience across various media platforms, including television, radio, print, op-eds, and social media. Harnessing the power of SSN's substantial network of publicly engaged scholars, SSN members with significant experience in the media and a relevant research agenda act as year-long mentors to SSN Media Fellows, offering their advice, feedback, and guidance to help expand the fellow's reach and impact via the media. Additional, hands-on media workshops facilitated by SSN national staff provide fellows with the basic skills and background for engaging in media work. Finally, fellows are provided with tailored support by SSN national staff as media opportunities arise over the course of the fellowship.
