Education Policy Intern/Fellow

The Scholars Strategy Network (SSN) seeks an Education Policy Intern (or Fellow if the applicant is a graduate student) to support the Policy Team in implementing the Education Scholars Training Program (ESTP). This internship is an opportunity for a current graduate or undergraduate student to learn about how to build connections between researchers and policy actors to support research-informed policymaking. The ESTP Intern is a part-time position with an hourly wage between $15-$18 per hour, commensurate with experience. The position requires a commitment of 10-15 hours per week and would take place over the Spring 2025 semester, with the possibility for extension. This position is fully remote and reports to SSN's Policy Associate leading the ESTP. SSN currently operates in a remote-first, hybrid work environment, but this role may be available as a fully remote position for an exceptionally qualified candidate.
