

SSN Media Fellowship

ALL APPLICATIONS DUE: AUGUST 30TH

The Scholars Strategy Network is thrilled to launch the second year of the the SSN Media Fellowship. In an era where effective communication is paramount, the ability to harness the power of media is crucial for advancing public understanding and shaping policy debates. Designed to empower SSN members who are new to media work, the SSN Media Fellowship will pair selected SSN members with mentors from the network, while also providing additional support from national staff.

Program Overview

The SSN Media Fellowship is a new opportunity for SSN members to receive personalized guidance, training, and support from experienced SSN members and the national staff. This program is tailored to equip scholars who are new to media engagement with the skills and strategies necessary to effectively communicate their research findings to a diverse audience across various media platforms, including television, radio, print, op-eds, and social media. Space is limited.

Selected SSN members will be paired with experienced public scholars from the SSN network to provide hands-on advice and feedback on their media strategy in regular mentorship meetings. Mentorship pairs are expected to meet approximately five time during the 2024-2025 academic year. Mentor-mentee meetings will be supplemented with media workshops by the SSN national staff. SSN staff will also offer additional assistance, including editing OpEd drafts, pitching OpEds to media outlets, finding media contacts, and sharing media alerts as applicable.

Timeline

August 30th: All applications due.

September 30th: Selected fellows will be notified and paired with a mentor.

October 7th or 8th: Onboarding for all fellows.
